Organisations in Achieving ISO45001

How Prosure360 Supports Organisations in Achieving ISO45001

Most organisations have probably heard of ISO45001 and are currently working towards the certification because it offers a wealth of business benefits.

Not only will ISO45001 help you attract and retain stakeholders, but it also positions you as an industry leader.

One of the key areas in the standard focuses on contractor management; this highlights the need for your business to demonstrate your contractor management process.

Without a streamlined contractor management process in place, you risk losing out on getting your ISO45001 certification. In this brochure, we'll uncover how Prosure360 can make it easier to achieve ISO45001.

What is ISO45001?

ISO45001 is an international standard for occupational health and safety, set by the _International Standards Organization (ISO)_.

This health and safety standard was published in March 2018 with the intention of improving levels of safety in the workplace.

Companies can use this standard as a framework to reduce risks to the physical and mental health of their employees.

What are the benefits of getting ISO45001 certified?

Although all businesses are required to keep their workplaces safe, it isn't currently mandatory for organisations to become ISO45001 certified.

However, there are many benefits to achieving this accreditation which may inspire a company to get certified. Some of the key benefits include:

- Boosting your occupational health and safety rating.

- Attracting and retaining key stakeholders.

- Improving overall staff health and safety.

- Establishing your business as leaders of industry.

- Building trust with clients and business partners.

- Lowering your insurance premiums.

- Reducing staff absenteeism.

There are many ways that your business could benefit the ISO45001 certification, which is why you need to understand the importance of contractor management in achieving this standard.

Why is contractor management important in achieving ISO45001?

The way that your business manages contractors plays a major role is achieving the ISO45001 certification

Throughout the ISO45001 standard, managing contractors and suppliers is mentioned numerous times, requiring organisations to have a contractor management process in place. Businesses need to be able to demonstrate this to an ISO auditor to support the achievement of the accreditation.

This involves having a system in place to check the qualifications and certifications of contractors to minimise risks and promote health and safety.

If you are hoping to achieve the ISO45001 accreditation, you need to have a scalable contractor management process in place which must be clearly communicated and easily accessible to all relevant parties.

Without a management process in place, this will delay, if not entirely prevent you, from achieving ISO45001.

How can Prosure360 make it easier to achieve ISO45001?

Prosure360 is a supplier and contractor management tool which simplifies the contractor management process.

Our system gives you real time data, allowing you full visibility over the contractors and suppliers you work with.

Contractors and suppliers can engage with the system, uploading key documents and populating it with information about their business and activities. This gives you everything you need to make an informed choice about who you work with.

Prosure360 is an intuitive and user-friendly platform which ensures you have all your core supply chain documentation in one place. This means you can keep track of and report on goals relating to supply chain management, net zero emissions and ESG.

With Prosure360, you can actively manage:

- Professional memberships, certificates, and accreditations.

- Financial health.

- Geographical areas covered by the supplier and or contractors.

- Services provided by the supplier and or contractors.

- Contracts / schedules of rates.

With our industry-disrupting software, you can save time, cut costs, and maximise efficiency by having a fountain of knowledge about your suppliers and contractors at your fingertips.

If you're working towards your ISO45001 accreditation, Prosure360 will assure your ISO auditor that your contractor management process is slick and effective.
